Summary

(as of May 21, 2014)

Jumpstarting Occupational-learning and Entrepreneurship Act or the JOE Act - Amends the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 to exempt school-based enterprises that are managed as part of a school's curriculum from the nutrition standards for foods sold in schools that are not foods provided under the school lunch and breakfast programs.

Defines a "school-based enterprise" as an entrepreneurial operation in a school setting that:

- provides goods or services to meet the needs of the market;
- is managed and operated by students as a hands-on learning laboratory;
- provides realistic and practical learning experiences that reinforce classroom instruction;
- may sell to consumers through a permanent location, a mobile kiosk, or through Internet marketing; and
- may sell products such as food and beverage items or provide services such as event catering.
