Expresses the sense of the House of Representatives that:

- only Congress has the constitutional authority to declare war according to article 1, section 8, clause 11 of the Constitution;
- the President should set clear objectives for the U.S. Armed Forces before committing them to battle; and
- the President should provide Congress with a clear and definitive deployment and troop commitment plan before engaging in hostilities against the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS).

States that the House should not approve a request for the Use of Military Force against ISIS:

- unless the President provides Congress with requested information, and
- if the President commits to defeating ISIS using temporary duty assignment as a main means of troop deployment.
